

ARTICLE APPEARED
ON PAGE 20

U.S. NEWS & WORLD REPORT
18 May 1981

Washington Whispers.

James Baker, White House chief of staff, has reached the end of his rope on leaks of sensitive information to the press. From now on, every White House official must keep a log of telephone contacts with anyone outside the administration.